Kevin brings passion and real world experience to his presentations...

Kevin Cobb, author of "Quit Feeding the Monsters: Creating a Positive Culture", speaks at dozens of conferences every year across North America—consistently receiving top ratings from attendees at his keynote and technical sessions (see example below).

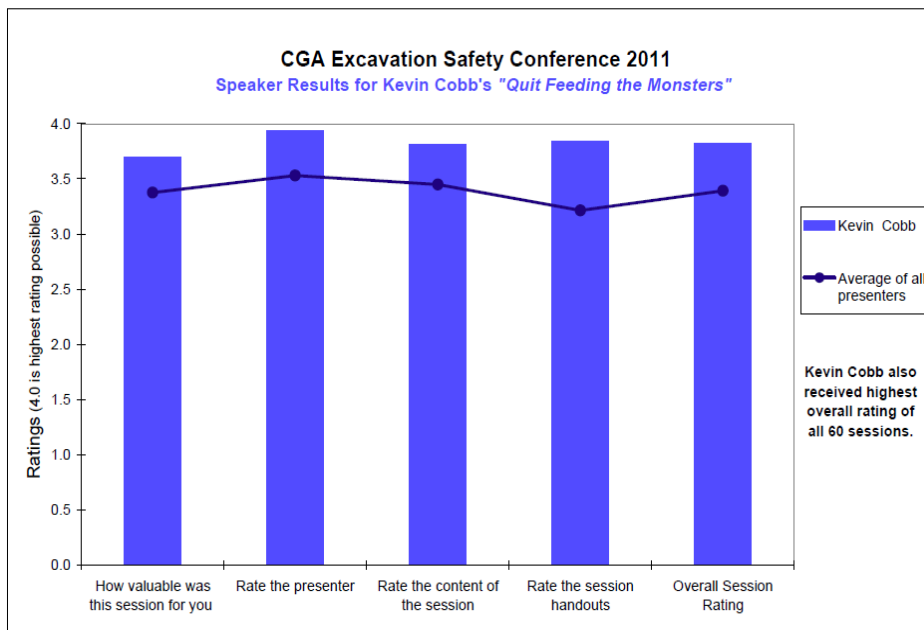

With Kevin's 15+ years of experience working with companies in nearly every industry, he comes to you with a vast amount of experience in implementing behavior-based safety and advanced safety awareness programs. With his consulting hat on, he has trained and presented to more than a quarter of a million managers, supervisors and employees—improving safety at literally hundreds of organizations. On average, the companies that he has worked with have reduced their injuries by over 50% in the first year following his assistance. Interestingly, what he has found is that companies face the same challenges regardless of industry or geography, which motivated him to write his recently published book.

As a father of four, and a grandfather to three, Kevin is passionate about making the world a safer place for all of us. So it is no surprise that his message and the skills and techniques he delivers in his sessions help improve safety everywhere—at work, at home and on the road.

Kevin's passion, experience and brilliant anecdotes make him one of our most sought after keynote presenters, while his real-world perspective will get everyone thinking differently about, and motivated to improve, their personal safety.
