

Here is what attendees at Paul's sessions are saying

“Paul brings a wealth of experience implementing health and safety programs in a variety of settings.”

Paul Engelbrecht has joined Electrolab Training Systems as a Certified SafeStart and SafeTrack trainer. Paul's most recent accomplishment has been with a large Ontario school board as Supervisor of Occupational Health and Safety and WSIB, assisting, advising senior staff, teachers, support staff and joint occupational health and safety committees.

Previously, Paul is a certified engineering technician in construction with the Alberta Society of Engineering Technologists (1981); certified Occupational Health and Safety from Algonquin College; and had more than 27 years with the Canadian Military Engineers where occupational health and safety was an integral part of his job.

Paul Engelbrecht has obtained recognition for the following achievements:

- 1978 Base Occupational Health and Safety award for the highest reduction in lost time days
- 1996 was articulated in the DuPont newsletter for work with a behavior based observation program achieving 72% reduction in lost time days.
